SUGGESTIONS FOR RAISING PRIZE WINNING DAHLIAS

CARE OF TUBERS UPON ARRIVAL: Upon arrival tubers should be planted at once if the ground is ready for them providing the soil is not too wet or cold. If soil is not ready, tubers should be carefully removed from the box being careful not to break off eyes or shoots, and placed in a larger box with a couple of inches of damp peat moss, saw dust, vermiculite or sand on them, storing in a cool place in order to keep them from drying out. WE DO NOT PLANT UNTIL ABOUT THE 20th OF MAY. WAIT UNTIL THE GROUND IS WARM AND DRY. DO NOT CONDEMN A SMALL TUBER. REMEMBER MANY OF THE LARGEST AND BEST VARIETIES MAKE SMALL TUBERS.

PREPARING THE SOIL FOR PLANTING: Before planting spade the ground well to loosen the soil to a depth of 6 to 8 inches. Mix sand or coal ashes with your soil if it is too heavy. Let it lay in the rough for about a week. Then just before planting broadcast about 7 lbs. of 5-8-7 or 5-10-10 for every 12 hills of dahlias and rake this into the soil. Next measure your garden and drive a stake about three feet apart. Dig a hole about 5 inches deep on each side of stake, take tuber with eye facing up and about an inch away from the stake and lay it flat in the hole. Cover with about 2 inches of soil and gradually fill in the hole as the plant grows. Cultivate each week and after each rain to keep your ground soft and free from baking. When plants are about a foot high or showing their third set of leaves pinch out the centers to allow the plant to grow into a stockier and bushier plant. After this start to tie your plant to stake with soft twine as it grows. This will keep it growing straight.

SPRAYING your plants even though they look healthy is a good investment. Spray at least once a week or after each rain with any good insecticide following the instructions given on the container. We use MALATHION or Denate 50W. If you notice a plant being eaten, or a stem drooping — look for the insect, find it and kill it. About the middle of August you will notice buds starting to form on your plants. It is now time for the final fertilization — so just before a rain if possible — take a large handful of the same fertilizer used in the Spring and spread in a circle not more than 8 inches and not nearer than 6 inches from the stalk of each plant. Work into soil lightly and stop cultivating from now on. Blooms will start to show shortly after this date.

DIGGING AND STORING OF ROOTS AFTER FROST: About 3 or 4 days after a black killing frost; select a sunny day. Cut the dahlia stalks off about 5 inches above ground. With a spading fork carefully dig and lift the clumps of roots from the ground being careful not to break or twist the tubers or necks. Take tag from stake and twist around one of the tubers, or write the name on damp tubers with an indelible pencil for future identification. Turn clumps over and allow them to drain for about 4 hours. Pick up and take into storage. Pack into airtight boxes or barrels lined with newspaper. We use boxes and put in a layer of clumps and a good heavy layer of newspaper doing this until the box is filled, then covering over with newspaper. Look at them several times through the Winter. Store in a cool dry place away from frost or heat about 40 degrees. About the middle of April or first of May take out tubers and start to divide them for planting.

NOTICE: WE WILL NOT REPLACE ANY ROOTS THAT HAVE ROTTED ON ACCOUNT OF BEING PLANTED TOO EARLY. IF ANY BULBS DO NOT SHOW SIGNS OF GROWING AFTER THREE WEEKS IN THE GROUND RETURN THEM AND WE WILL REPLACE.
